Thanks to the powerful magical books called the Codex, Bookmasters from all over the world have for centuries been coming head to head in a major tournament of magical duels. The winner is crowned the Master of Masters, thus gaining the power to create a new Codex from the book of his choice. Soul, the new Master of the Codex of Perrault's tales, participates for a very specific reason: he wants to bring his parents back to life. This plan is entirely dependent on Amel, his older sister who is a talented young author. Her book is an autobiographical novel entitled "Les marches du Sacré Coeur" and it recounts the happy days of her family, and the good times that Soul, Amel and their parents spent in their Parisian neighborhood...
