'Romantica' is the new project of Daniel Casanave and David Vandermeulen: a collection with the ambition to tell the life of the great figures of European Romanticism. The first volume takes place in England, with the Shelley couple. The second, Germany, with the poet Adelbert von Chamisso. France is by no means left out, since the third album, is about the life of Gerard de Nerval! These stories are about the life of artists with extraordinary personalities, based on their biographies, as well as on their autobiographical works. A truly historical approach, highlighted by the personal and subjective vision of the authors, who try to understand in their subjective and playful way the life stories of some of the biggest Romanticism figures.
