It's the year 2157, and thousands of cities across the world have been swallowed up by rising waters. The global climate is a disaster, and a third of all inhabited cities are completely ravaged. It seems that the molecular structure of the Earth's water has in fact been modified... How is that possible? What mysterious intelligence is behind these cataclysms threatening mankind? Strange creatures have begun to appear in the inundated areas of Earth, and Bruno Daix will be the first to have to confront this unspeakable enemy in the depths.
