Brought up by a Swiss family, Zélie wants to return to her native Africa. She hopes to rediscover her roots and find again a childhood friend. She leaves for the Sahel in the company of a humanitarian. Conceived by the initiative of the Swiss Co-operation for Development, this moving tale is a story of friendship. It is also the captivating account of the daily fight of man against the desert, and a remarkable testimony to the importance of humanitarian aid between North and South.
