A young boy traveling through a place that looks like Louisiana falls completely in love with a saxophone. Penniless, Billy will work hard to get it... but playing well turns out to be another thing entirely. Fortunately, he meets a little bird, who is a great musician. Together, the two friends are quickly hired at a prestigious jazz club. But between success, money and freedom, they will have to make choices that may change their lives. Without using any text, the author manages to explore many feelings and enables the reader to follow the fate of the characters with emotion, humor and fluidity.
