Set between November 1941 and December 1942, this is the chronicle of a year at the Lycée Leconte de Lisle on Reunion island, and the friendship that develops between two adolescent boys in the months leading up to the liberation of the island, under occupation by Vichy France. A remarkable, expertly-told coming-of-age story of two young people bound just as much by their growing pains as they are by their desire to fight for liberty and justice.
