A year after

WW2, Esther and Victor, former lovers, meet at a graveyard. They haven't seen each other since the invasion of the Netherlands by the Nazis. They are both shocked by the recent events and they begin sharing their stories of the past months: their difficult choices, their losses, and the perpetual battles they wage with their own consciences. This new graphic novel in two volumes is all about loss: of innocence, of youth, of dreams, and, most of all, of freedom.
