Fauve is an exorcist, but not just any exorcist. She is an exorcist of fine art and works for the largest museum in the world, the Louvre. Paintings, sculptures and even the smallest pieces of decorative art require her attention. Whether it's a masterpiece in distress, or a painting that just wants to hang out in the garden, Fauve and her colleagues in the mimetic security department ensure the museum's safety, both for the artworks and for the people, while gradually getting to know each other.
