In the near future, two young hackers, who have invented a virtual world of extraordinary realism, battle against a multinational video game company that wants to get their hands on their program.

A science fiction thriller, the first part recounts the creation of a new virtual world and how it's going to invade our real world bit by bit. Morvan (scriptwriter of SILLAGE) writes a very brilliant, very contemporary science fiction script (one thinks of MATRIX and the universe of the MANGA) that introduces a young talented French artist, Whamo.
