It's the year 2036, and advances in genetics now allow pets to be made according to the tastes of their owners. The Kanan family travels from the US to China to offer one of these GenPets to their son, Nat. His father's only condition: the GenPet must be able to defend Nat. But this demand creates certain anomalies in the animal that could turn out to be dangerous. Back in New York, the Kanans' car is attacked, and suddenly Nat and his GenPet find themselves alone in the Big Apple...
