H.O.M.E stands for Humanoid Obsolete Megalactic Electronics. It's the term used for disactivated robots considered to have outlived their usefulness. HOME is an old war robot left for scrap in a cosmic dump floating around in space. But one day, HOME suddenly reactivates! He soon makes his way back into our galaxy and lands on Earth, right on top of a young family's brand new home. As the unsuspecting family settles in, little do they realize that their new house has in fact been replaced by an intergalactic robot capable of destroying the planet! They try their best to carry on as normal in their strange new environment, but it was no accident that HOME chose this particular spot...
