Between pandemics and a civil war dubbed "Green Riot", the world is in turmoil... The activists of the C.H.A.O.S. group blow up the headquarters of the Sigmacorp pharmaceutical group, ready to launch a revolutionary nano-vaccine. It's a way of denouncing the company's probable responsibility for the arrival of viruses, but also of letting humanity go under, so that nature can live better... Twenty years later, the world is divided between megalopolises and shrinking rural enclaves, separated by neutral commercial zones such as the city of Bajara. This is where Beck arrives, an orphan raised by a martial arts master on a desert island. In search of her missing mentor, Beck takes part in a fighting arena show, outside the official UWC (Ultimate Warrior Challenge) circuit and its "enhanced" stars.
