In the distant, magical kingdoms, the birth of a prince seldom takes place without a spell or curse of some kind. Indeed, the young prince has suffered since childhood from a terrible handicap: as soon as his gaze rests on an animal, his face transforms into that of the beast! His horrified parents decide to conceal their son from their subjects' view, and shut him inside a palace room. One fine day, the young prince decides to escape and see the wide world. At that moment, his face happens to resemble that of a cat. He doesn't know that beyond the palace walls awaits a life filled with adventures, and with very unusual encounters....

A lyrical fairy tale, splendidly illustrated by the artwork of René Hausman.
