At the age of 8, Jean-Pierre is leading a blossoming life, subject to the rhythm of nature, in a village that provides enough stories and space to feed his child's imagination. There is a church in the middle of the village, a single primary school class, an authoritarian and a teacher with a moustache... Jean-Pierre is in love with his mum, as all little boys are, and extremely admiring of his dad, his champion, who is not around enough. But his parents split up... $% \left(1\right) =\left(1\right) \left(1\right)$ For this new story, the author tackles a difficult period experienced by a child, in an almost autobiographical way. A modest and deeply moving tale!
