A family drama centered on a brother and sister. After the death of their father, Pablo and Iria's mother turns to drugs. One day, in a fit of anger, their mother's new boyfriend tattoos the seven-year-old Pablo's back. When ten-year-old Iria tries to intervene, he hits her, leaving her disfigured. Ten years later, having been raised by their maternal grandfather, Pablo and Iria have cut off all contact with their mother, now in prison. But the horrific incident from their childhood continues to leave its mark on them both physically and psychologically. Pablo works in a supermarket and practices martial arts to try to channel his anger. Iria is an embalmer who remains beautiful and proud despite her facial scar. But Pablo's choices will drag them into the unsavory world of underground fighting, and their mother's release from prison will awaken the pain of past events.
